HUNS HAVE SIGNED ARMISTICE

World War Is Ended. German and Austrian Emperors Abdicate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Armistice terms have been signed by Germany, the state department announced. It was signed at five o'clock a.m. Paris time, and hostilities ceased at 11 o'clock Monday morning, Paris time.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—A special dispatch received from Eysden Holland, says that when the train of William Hohenzolern arrived there the former German Emperor was not aboard. Later he arrived by motor car, having abandoned the train because of shots fired at the window of the car in which he was riding.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 13.—The abdication of Emperor Charles of Austria is officially announced at Vienna.

Mr. Chas. Baker Succumbs To Flu

Sunday morning Mr. Chas. Baker died at his home about five miles north west of Irma. Mr. Baker has been in poor health for some time but was around as usual on Saturday. Early Sunday morning he took a hemorrhage and passed away. A wife and four small children are left to mourn his loss. The remains were interned at Irma Tuesday afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Bailey of Jarrov officiating. Mr. Baker came here about six years ago. His parents are living in Ohio. A large number of sympathizing friends accompanied the remains to their last resting place.

Mrs. Wong Foo Victim Epidemic

On Thursday afternoon the death occurred of Mrs. Wong Foo of the Empire Cafe. When it became known around town that Mrs. Wong Foo was suffering from pneumonia having developed it from an attack of the flu all that could be done for her was done, but all was in vain. She leaves a husband and several children to mourn her loss. Mrs. Wong Foo came here from Innisfree about three years ago. She came to this country from Canton, China in the year 1908. The funeral took place on Friday afternoon at the Viking Cemetery and was conducted by the Rev. T. Lund—Viking News. Mrs. Wong Foo is the wife of Mr. Wong Foo, who is proprietor of the restaurant in Irma.

Hymn of Victory

O God, our strength throughout the years,
Our Tower of Refuge yet;
We thank Thee, through our joyful tears,
That Thou did'st not forget
Our trust in Thee, our agony
In sacrifice of loved ones gone—
(Tho' oft our faith groped waveringly,
But now—OF PEACE WE SEE THE DAWN!

Victorious Peace! How sweet the sound
Tho' we have watched afar
In homes secure, the dreadful round
Of these long years of War;
We knew, O God! the Thou wert still
The Ruler over all,
That Thou Thy promise would'st fulfill—
To judgement would'st the Tyrants call.

O God of Battles, leave us not
In this glad hour of Victory.
Let it ne'er be by us forgot
That we owe all the praise to Thee
For guidance thro' each long dark hour,
For Wisdom to our Leaders given,
Thou wert each Soldier's Strength and Power,
And thus the foe's strong lines were riven.

O God of Wisdom, guide us still
Now that the war is won,
Help us, in Christ's name to fulfill
The work we have begun,
Help us to help those countless ones
In that blighted land;
May we, in love like to Thy Son's,
Extend the helping hand.

O God of judgement, we must needs
Now leave the task to Thee,
O Punishing for their dire deeds,
The common enemy
Of all that's true, and good, and right—
Deal with them justly in Thy night.
Vengeance is Thine, help us not to forget;
Deal with them yet—Oh judge them yet!

O God of Victory, in this hour
Of triumph o'er our foes,
Grant us a never-ending power
To gain the victory over those
Who would the soul destroy—
Thus may the world be filled with joy

We know that always in Thy sight,
Not might—but right is right.

Mrs. Win. E. Walker.

Jack Canuck—Storekeeper

IN Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta Jack Canuck is running an immense produce business these days.

He has millions of bushels of grain; boat loads of flour; vast herds of cattle, sheep and pigs; butter, cheese and poultry and other food supplies by the trainload.

The customers at his counter are Great Britain, France and Italy, whose credit is unquestionable, but who are just now short of cash. So Jack Canuck in order to sell his goods must give his customers credit until the war is won.

It is just the same situation that confronts every storekeeper who gives farmers credit until their crops are harvested.

So Jack Canuck borrows money on Victory Bonds in order to give credit to his customers.

He pays good interest on Victory Bonds. He offers as security all Canada and everything contained therein.

By issuing Victory Bonds Jack Canuck keeps his big business going—and all the money he borrows from Canadians he spends in Canada.

We must buy Victory Bonds in order that the business of Jack Canuck shall remain prosperous and healthy.

We must buy Victory Bonds in order that our brave and gallant army shall have food, clothing and ammunition to win complete Victory over the enemies of our country.

Buy Victory Bonds

so that Jack Canuck can continue to give credit to his customers

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada.

HAY! HAY! HAY!

We are still buying hay, loose or bale at the best market price. NOTICE—We are not however buying any hay cut late or discolored.

Ingram's Milkweed Cream

Two Sizes—50c and $1

For 32 years Canadian women have found Ingram's Milkweed Cream the most effective toilet preparation on the market for keeping the complexion clear and soft, preventing wrinkles and pimples, keeping the hands soft and white even when in dish-water daily, and warding off hang-nails from the fingers. It has therapeutic qualities no other emollient possesses.

Always have a box of Ingram's Vaseline Soothing Face Powder (50c) in the house. A mere touch and oiliness and perspiration disappear. It covers up blemishes and gives you a clear, flawless complexion. It stays on. At your drugstore there is a complete line of Ingram's toilet products including Soothers for the face, hands, and feet.

A Picture with Each Purchase

Each time you buy a package of Ingram's Toilet aids or Perfume your drugstore will give you, without charge, a large portrait of a world-famous model picture artist. Each time you get a different portrait so you make a collection for your home. Ask your druggist.

Two Kinds of Dollars

"A dollar thrown away is not as bright as a dollar put away," is an old proverb. Though people no longer hoard money in stockings, the principle is as true as it ever was. The dollar that is thrown away doesn't stay wholesome and useful. The dollar that is put away keeps its earning power and utility in time of need.

The future of Canada will depend on the dollars that are put away now. The great prosperity we are enjoying now cannot last forever. You may have dollars to throw away now; but if you do you will long some day for dollars to put away. Then the dollars the other fellow has put away will look mighty bright to you. Saving the dollars is common sense; and it is patriotism too! Start putting away the bright ones.

Indians Aid Food Production.

There will be approximately 100,000 acres of Saskatchewan land in the greater production scheme directed by the commissioner of the department of Indian affairs next year. This means a decided increase in the acreage cultivated by the Indians who have shown a great willingness to work harder than they ever did before in their holdings, in view of the shortage of foodstuffs.

The amount the Indians will seed to wheat next year is double their acreage this year.

Clovers Thrive in Alberta

Every Year Seed in Increasing Quantities Is Being Produced

White, alsike and sweet clovers grow abundantly in the irrigated districts of Southern Alberta and in the central and northern parts of the province without irrigation. The proficiency with which white clover grows in Central Alberta is especially noticeable in the residential parts of Edmonton, where the clover has overgrown the lawn grass on the borders of the streets, giving them a carpet of white through the summer. It spreads spontaneously and is perfectly hardy.

Alsike clover is a very hardy crop and is grown successfully in many parts of Alberta, with and without irrigation, both for hay and pasture. In Central Alberta it is frequently grown with timothy. South of Edmonton a farmer has a field of alsike which was planted eight years ago, the growth of which was thicker this year than with the first crop. This has paid the experimental stage and every year seed in increasing quantities is being produced.

Sweet clover was introduced into Alberta at a later date than the other two varieties mentioned, but it is being grown quite successfully, and becoming increasingly popular among dairy farmers.

STRONG PEOPLE NEEDED

The need for people to be healthy is urgent. Those whom illness has kept outside the ranks of robust men and women feel their position keenly. They are handicapped in every walk of life and weak men and nerve-women need more earnestly than ever to put their health right and become active and strong. Many who remember that the ills of debility, nerve exhaustion, indigestion, sleeplessness, neuralgia, and depression come from a faulty blood supply. Worry, over-work or other causes have impoverished the blood and left the life-stream impure. The nerves thereby are starving and the whole system is languishing for new blood. In this condition many thousands have won back strong nerves and new health and strength through the new rich blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make. In a weak or bloodless condition it not only is a waste of time and money, but also a further menace to your health. The example of so many thousands by giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial, and they will transform you into healthy, strong, and active men.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. J. C. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Has Hardest Task

Individual Feats of Courage in Gouard's Army

General Gouard's army had the hardest task of all the French army. Immense feats of individual courage are recorded. One French soldier with an automatic rifle secured a complete German field gun battery. He crept up on the battery position by himself and shot all the gunners. A lieutenant, a sergeant and six privates with automatic rifles, took a trench with 105 prisoners by making the Germans believe they had been cut off by the French.

A tribute to the skill and courage of an adversary was given in the last few days of a mortally wounded German officer who exclaimed to his French officer:

"You have fought magnificently. You were the bravest of my countrymen. As a soldier I congratulate you."

Lens and Armentieres

Wrecked by Four Years of Devastating War.

Lens, given up by the Germans, is the centre of the "black country" of France and the key to the coal fields. Before the war the great manufacturing district of Northern France obtained its output of coal from the Lens country, as did also Paris. The output was about 5,000,000 tons. Lens is also a manufacturing centre, but four years in the proximity of a modern war has almost utterly destroyed the city.

Lens has been the scene of bitter fighting. In the fall of 1914, when Sir John French tried to outflank the Germans the enemy succeeded in taking up a line putting Lens behind him. Both in the spring and the fall of 1915 heavy attacks were made by French and British in this district, but though local successes were gained, the line was not broken and the city remained in German possession. In April, 1917, the Canadians took the Vimy Ridge, immediately to the south of the city, and were pressing in on it and "pinching" it when the corps was called north to the Passchendaele operations.

The evacuation of Lens by the Germans opens up again to the French the coal fields, though the enemy likely has done all in his power to wreck the machinery for working the mines before he left. Judging from reports received from the front, Lens has been deluged with gas from time to time, probably for the past six weeks.

Armentieres, also evacuated by the enemy, is a manufacturing city on the River Lys, about half way between Lens and Ypres. Four years of war also have wrecked this city. The British held Armentieres from the fall of 1914 until their retreat in this sector last spring.

Honor Where Honor is Due

British Scientists Have Risen to and Overcome a Great Emergency

It is sometimes argued as though the application of science to industry were a German discovery. Nothing of the kind. Scientific industrialism had its origin in the west, but in the last twenty years prior to the war our rivals both in Germany and America, were certainly making headway at a much more rapid pace, and the three main causes of this were their more convinced belief in the indispensability of science to a better organization of industry, and their larger view of the duties of the state towards industrial regulation. British scientists and British manufacturers have risen to and overcome a great emergency, and their success will greatly encourage us in our own endeavours when Great Britain once more wakes up to what she had lost—London Daily Telegraph.

YES! MAGICALLY! CORNS LIFT OUT WITH FINGERS

You say to the drug store man, "Give me a small bottle of freestone." This will cost very little, but will positively remove every hard or sore corn or callus from your feet.

A few drops of this new ether compound applied directly upon a tenacious corn or callus will soften it instantly, and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, dries up and can be lifted off with the fingers.

And soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, dries up and can be lifted off with the fingers.

And soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, dries up and can be lifted off with the fingers.

His Mother's Keepsake

In the midst of a battle one young lieutenant, running into a pal of his, showed him under the flap of his pocket a little gold brooch.

"If anything should happen to me," he said, "try to get hold of this pin, will you, and when you get time ship it back to my mother."

The other promised, and the lieutenant went his way. He had not gone twenty feet when he was struck by a shell and killed instantly. The pin is on its way to the United States.

NURSING THE WOUNDED

It takes strength and courage to nurse the wounded. Every woman should make it a point to read and study abroad. Health and strength are within the reach of every woman. They are brought you by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Take this medicine, and there is a safe and certain remedy for the chronic weakness, derangement, and disease peculiar to women. It will build up, strengthen, and invigorate every "run-down" or delicate woman. It assists the natural functions.

At some period in her life, a woman requires a special tonic and nerve.

If you're a tired or afflicted woman, turn to "Favorite Prescription," you will find it never fails to benefit. Sold in tablet or liquid form. Send Dr. Pierce, Favorite Prescription, and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., (or branch, Bridgeport, Ont.) 10c for trial pack. Tablets. Long shorters. Instead of directing their efforts on clay pigeons they deflect hand grenades which the Germans have thrown their own force of a full charge of buckshot on a Mills bomb, for instance, is to make it fall many yards short of the target, or which it was intended to explode, of course, but outside the trench, and the steel particles fly harmlessly over the heads of the men. Thus a popular American sport has been directed toward winning the war—Pittsburgh Sun.

A Poor Picture

The teacher had sketched on the blackboard what purported to be a deer. As the class did not readily respond to the request to reveal the identity of the animal the teacher sought to prompt them.

"Now, Tommy," she said, turning to the boy at the bottom of the class, "come, what does your father call your mother?"

"Gum," came the reply; "you can't fool me; that's no old cat!"

Canada's Army Corps Second To None

Dominant Factor in Success Is Team Play

Major General Mewburn, minister of militia, in an address to the army and navy veterans at the Central Canada Exhibition, said that the Canadian army corps in France is the strongest striking force, bar none.

"This is admitted by officials of the highest rank, and their records have proved it at Arras, Amiens and other points to which they were moved," he said. "Our casualties have been heavy, but thank God, there were men in the reinforcing pools in France to fill every gap, and the pools were re-filled from the corps in England."

General Mewburn said the Canadian corps had developed many geniuses and paid high tribute to the work of General Stewart, of the railway troops, who, he said, would shortly be appointed director of the whole transportation system in France and Flanders.

"The dominant factor in the success of our corps is the team play," declared the minister. "In General Currie we have a man in every sense of the word. He is idolized by every man under him. All are war-weary, war-tired, but determined to see it through to a successful conclusion."

Sioux Indians

Backing the War

Members of Tribe Enlist and Buy Bonds

The Sioux Indians are among the most enthusiastic war workers of the Northwest, and they are not merely in the movement for a chance to get upon the "warpath," but are going in to the war with the same understanding of what they are doing as the white men of the Northwest. Many of them left the schools to enlist with the first companies which were sent out by the state, while others waited, as did many whites, until the call by draft came, and when it came they did not put in many exemption claims, but were ready to go when wanted.

The number who have been sent from South Dakota is not obtainable from any central record, but every reservation has furnished its quota, and there are probably more than a thousand from Dakota with Indian blood in their veins, either at the front, or in the camps getting ready for the trip to Europe. Some of them have already fallen in battle. Some of the Dakota Indians have subscribed up to $15,000 for bonds, and hundreds of them are holders of Liberty bonds and war savings stamps in smaller amounts, and their most popular endeavor is that of Red Cross work, the women not only doing the sewing, but also the work of the women of the Red Cross societies among whites, but the older ones in the camps and at the front, for many sales which are held at places on the reservations, where decorated robes and bead work, which means a month of labor to the Indian, are freely donated. Along with these, donations of live stock are common. At Fort Tule, for instance, the people of the Rosebud Reservation, where there were only a half dozen whites, and the whole affair was under control of the Indians, the receipts for the $1200 for the Red Cross. At Cheyenne agency, where whites as well as Indians were purchasing out the donors, the returns went far above this. The Sioux Indians are backing the war movement in every way.

Yankee Ingenuity

Popular American Sport Directed Toward Winning War

Scarcely a day passes but that the news reports tell us of some new evidence of the application of Yankee ingenuity to the prosecution of the war. The latest sample is credited to an Indian contingent which successfully tried out setting bear traps in No Man's Land. The Indians were simply applying an idea of their own west where big game is plentiful. The traps are placed outside the American wire, and when Fritz crawls out to gain a little information he gets caught.

Another truly American idea which is saving many lives in the front lines is the so-called "buckshot squads." These squads are made up of crack troops, and instead of directing their efforts on clay pigeons they deflect hand grenades which the Germans have thrown their own force of a full charge of buckshot on a Mills bomb, for instance, is to make it fall many yards short of the target, or which it was intended to explode, of course, but outside the trench, and the steel particles fly harmlessly over the heads of the men. Thus a popular American sport has been directed toward winning the war—Pittsburgh Sun.

The Effect of Moonlight

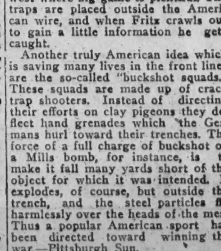

It was at the seashore and they were sitting on the beach while the moon shone beautifully on the surging waves.

A Good Farm

— IS WORTH GOOD BUILDINGS —

Any farm is good that provides a living for the family.
 Comfortable buildings help to make a poor farm good and a good farm better.

Even the land that has been ruined and "turned to the Lord" may be brought back to life by the aid of live stock; but first you must have buildings and fences to make the live stock comfortable.

Each farm is shy a building or two, and most farms need more fencing.
 Fences for range, health and pasture; barns and stables for storage and winter feeding.

If animals require all their feed to keep them alive and warm, then the grain is being burned for fuel, while the animals are marking time.
 Time may not be much of an object to the animal, but it is to the owner.

EPIDEMIC INFLUENZA

Instructions Regarding Care of Sick Persons

Since Thousands of People Are Nursing Influenza Patients in the Province the Following Instructions Will Be of Value

1. Fresh air is the most essential requisite to the comfort and well being of patients, no matter how ill.
2. Rest in bed for three days after fever has gone, is urged to prevent complications.
3. Pneumonia cases should not be kept in the same room with uncomplicated influenza cases.
4. Nourishing food at regular intervals.
5. Plenty of water or Lemonade.
6. General unworried service. Avoid chattering, nagging or questioning. Anticipate wants of sickest patients; convalescents usually ask for what they want. Keep the patients in isolated room, in separate beds. Keep patients in bed all of the time. This means patient must not get up to go to the bathroom. Two or three pillows arranged step fashion, the lowest well under the shoulders, will make breathing easier. Keep the arms and shoulders well covered. Ventilate the room freely. At the outset, headache and backache are frequent. Cold cloths, moist but not dripping, to the head, changed frequently, give some relief.

Avoid anything that might cause the slightest chill.

Care of Mouth. A mouth wash every few hours and cold cream to the lips helps to keep the mouth in a normal condition.

If the patient is extremely weak, swab the teeth carefully with moistened cotton applications three times daily.

Cough. Patient should keep mouth covered when coughing. Paper napkins or three thicknesses of toilet paper used only once, are safer and better than rags or handkerchiefs. Keep a small paper bag pinned to bedside, within easy reach of patient's hand, to receive the used napkins. Change bag at least twice daily, or whenever it becomes half full.

The invisible spray from the mouth and nose during coughing and sneezing is as dangerous as visible expectoration. Convalescent patients can be masked; weak patients are annoyed by them.

Food. For the unhappy, feverish patients, liquid diet, hot or cold, as preferred milk, lemonade, weak tea and coffee, broths. For convalescents and patients not feverish, soft diet, gruels, cooked cereals, milk toast, jellies, soft boiled eggs, etc.

Food may be kept warm in a thermos bottle.

All patients should drink some water every hour when awake.

Precautions. All mouth washes, bathwater, exeta, and uneaten liquid food should be thrown into the toilet by the attendant.

All bags, napkins, scraps of uneaten food, mouth swab, etc., should be wrapped in clean news paper before being carried to the kitchen to be destroyed by burning.

All linen, sheets, masks, towels, etc., should be submerged in a large kettle of cold water in the skilroom, or put in a pillow slip, or laundry bag. This can be safely carried to the kitchen stove and when contents have been boiled five minutes anyone may finish caring for the linen. When attendant cannot stop to wash her own hands, door knobs, faucets, etc., should be protected by scraps of newspaper, which may be destroyed after each using. Attendants must be constantly masked, must wear big all over aprons in sickroom, changing it to a different one always before entering any other part of the house. Attendant must keep facilities for washing her own hands, soap, nail brush and paper towels, in clean place and never touch the patient or patient's utensils without afterward cleansing her own hands thoroughly. Running water is better and safer than a basin of weak disinfectant kept for the hands alone.

Everything used for the patient should be kept separate from the supplies for the rest of the household. This means dishes, bed linen, bath wraps, towels, face cloths, rocking chair, etc.

Families can help visiting nurses and aids by having hot water, towels and newspapers ready when nurses are expected.

Monday night the five year son of W. O. Eaton passed away after only two days illness with the Flu. Mr. Eaton and his family have been in Ontario for two months and had only returned to Irma about two weeks ago. Since then Mrs. Eaton and the four children have been sick. At last reports the rest of the family were doing nicely. They have the sincere sympathy of a host of friends in the district.

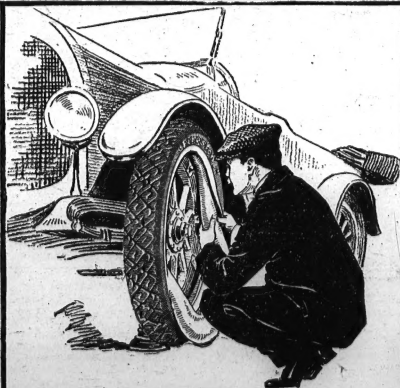

The remains were interred at Irma on Tuesday. The Rev. Bayley of Jarow officiating.

Section men burning fire guards Tuesday afternoon let the fire get away from them just west of the Battle River bridge, a strong wind was blowing from the southeast and before the settlers got it out it had burned over probably two sections of good grass. Luckily the telephone line was working and help was summoned from Irma and Strawberry plains district.

Wonderful Bilious Remedy Actually Prevents Attacks

There are two great causes of biliousness—they are constipation and defective liver action.

When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are taken, they are not only correct constipated bowels, but act upon the liver as well.

Quite unlike ordinary medicines which purge and give temporary relief, Dr. Hamilton's Pills remove the conditions which cause biliousness, and thus permanent cures are effected. No person who occasionally uses Dr. Hamilton's Pills will ever suffer from the headache, bad stomach or bilious complaint. Get a 25c box today.

"Well, of course," said Cooper disappointedly, "it isn't so, not the faintest use my troubling you or her. But look here, you can help me considerably. I want to know if you have heard anything that Miss de Rochefort said in her delirium, or if she has said anything since she has become conscious that might help me. I've questioned the woman Marie this afternoon, but she's extraordinarily secretive. I went there just before coming along to see you. The solicitor was, unfortunately, out, or he might have told me something; but that woman, while she pretends to be frankness itself, is certainly keeping something back. I got her reason for going to town yesterday. She says she was worried at not hearing from the Miss de Rochefort's guardian, and went up to try and bring him back for the inquiry; but he wasn't in town. I pointed out that she couldn't possibly have brought him back in time, and that she could easily have gone after the inquiry was over, and that in any case he wasn't coming, at all, but she said she hadn't understood, being French, and that sort of thing. Of course, it's a parcel of lies, because a woman who can't understand English as she can, and is as well educated, isn't going to get lost in London and do all the other things she talks about."

"Quite true," said Anthony, "but the ordinary servant type. She's even above the lady's maid or housekeeper class. I've noticed her several times how shrewd she is, and how much she knows about English ways."

"Two you've noticed her, have you?" the detective inquired. "I'm glad to hear that. Well, anyway, all this fuss of hers and the mystery she made at first (I've heard from Mr. Wakeman) about which twin was dead and the importance of letting no one hear Miss de Rochefort's ravings, convinces me that this affair isn't the ordinary burglary with murder thrown in, but that there's something behind it all quite out of the common. What that I'm going to find out."

Anthony turned to the detective in his most friendly way. "Well, Mr. Cooper," he said, "you don't know how pleased I am to say all this. I've been having arguments with Mr. Wakeman ever since this all happened, but I can't convince him that there's anything very mysterious in the affair. I was awfully struck from the very first by the secrecy of the French woman. You know, of course, that she refused to have a nurse for Miss de Rochefort? Well, her reason for that was that a nurse might understand French, and Marie evidently expected our patient to rave during her delirium in French, about something which is a deadly secret, and which must on no account be known."

"My first idea was that it was ridiculous to think that such a young girl could have anything to hide; but since then, I have changed my mind. Not, of course, that there could be anything discreditable to Miss de Rochefort, but there is something funny and rather uneasy about the whole affair. Marie has undoubtedly got some reason for all this mystery. By the way, she has completely changed her tactics since her mysterious visit to town. She now pretends that she never wanted to hide anything; but all the same she can't account for her absolute refusal to give us the guardian's name and address, nor the terror she showed when we suggested communication with him, and she still refuses any definite information."

"That's the fact," said Cooper. "But we know his address now, or what is presumably his, though not his name."

"What?" exclaimed the astonished Anthony. "How on earth did you get hold of that?"

"Well," the detective replied, "we've been making inquiries, but I can't honestly say they've told us much. The fact is, that yesterday afternoon, as soon as I heard that Marie had been seen getting into the one-thirty train for London, I got a description of her, flew to the telephone, and rang up Scotland Yard. They put a man on her track, who watched her get out of the train at the terminus, and followed her about for the rest of the afternoon. She executed some rather suspicious manoeuvres, covering her tracks and that kind of thing, changing from a taxi to a bus, back again to a taxi, and then walking, but she finally reached her destination, the back door of a house in Hector street—number thirteen—somewhere in the Cromwell Road region, and there she rang and was admitted. The man they sent from the Yard was a bit of a fool, for he stayed glued in sight of that back door, till after nine at night, though the house was left in utter darkness after seven. Of course, he waited in vain for her to come out because she must have left by the front door, and he hadn't the sense to telephone for someone to watch that, and never thought of going round himself to have a look. Of course there's nothing to prove that Marie did see the guardian, but it's highly to be supposed, especially from what you tell me of her change of tactics."

"I've loved, you've done a good piece of work there, Mr. Anthony; but how was it you didn't find out the man's name?"

"Well, naturally we started inquiries immediately, but they haven't had much success," was Cooper's reply. "We found that the house was let about eighteen months ago to a man named Jacques Cormand, who gave as his reference a good firm of solicitors and a good man, the man from the Yard found out easily, and let me know early this afternoon, that Cormand is nothing more nor less than a valet. There are no other servants in the house, which is a large one, and as far as they could find out, as a general rule no one but this valet, who is French, as his name would tell you, sleeps in the house. A good many inquiries in the neighborhood showed that the only visitor—front door visitor—so to speak, is a man who arrives in a huge motor, his face well hidden in his coat collar. Sometimes this man won't come for a week or more, sometimes he'll come every day. Whether he was there yesterday, I haven't yet heard, so that we can't be certain as yet if Marie really did see him or no."

"She might possibly have gone to see this man Cormand," suggested the detective; "but it's not likely. Although she plays innocent, she has quite a fair idea of English laws and customs. She wouldn't risk absconding herself from that inquest just to go and see a valet, even though she might be in love with him. From what I've heard, too, she's too devoted to Marie de Rochefort to do any such trivial case. Anyway, if she'd only gone to see Cormand, do you suppose she'd have taken the trouble to go so early in the morning about the house? I can tell you she showed no ignorance of the law, and she wouldn't have been in the first time she'd done that particular journey, and by just the same route, and in such a roundabout way to the house? I can tell you she showed no ignorance of the law, and she wouldn't have been in the first time she'd done that particular journey, and by just the same route, and in such a roundabout way to the house? I can tell you she showed no ignorance of the law, and she wouldn't have been in the first time she'd done that particular journey, and by just the same route, and in such a roundabout way to the house?"

A Record Atlantic Voyage

First Steamship Crossed the Ocean Eighty-five Years Ago

While it is nearly one hundred years since the first attempt to cross the Atlantic under steam, the Canadian may remember with justifiable pride that in September, 1833, eighty-five years ago, there arrived at Gravesend from Pictou, N.S., after what must have been an anxious voyage, the plucky little ship Royal William, first to cross by steam alone; that she was launched from the foot of St. Mary's current and her two hundred horse power engines were made and installed by Bennett and Henderson, of Montreal.

The American predecessor of the Royal William, the Savannah, did it, it is true, but the Atlantic voyage was as early as the spring of 1819, but was forced to resort to sails during the greater part of the time.

The Royal William was entirely a Canadian ship, built by Robert Black, at Quebec, for the Quebec and Halifax Steam Navigation Company and was towed to the foot of St. Mary's current. Here her engines were installed and Lady Asinor officiated at her christening.

Intended for Canadian coastwise trade, the Royal William had a capacity of 1,270 tons, but because of her build and the space occupied by her engines, her actual capacity was much less, being only some 800 tons. Her keel was 146 feet and her deck 176 feet long; depth of hold, 17 feet 9 inches. She was rigged like a three-masted schooner, carried three square sails on her foremast and large fore and aft sails.

She had fifty berths in the under-deck cabin, a parlor, also a dining saloon in a round house on her deck. When ready to put to sea, she had cost her owners $16,000.

Her first trip was from Quebec to Halifax and was begun in August, 1831, but she did not prove profitable, it is decided to send her to England where she might be purchased.

On August 5, 1833, Capt. John McDougall left Quebec on the memorable voyage, carrying a cargo of spars and natural curiosities. He was kept several days at Pictou, caulking and repairing boilers. He had five cabin passengers, and several more on the deck. The voyage was completed in September, 1839, to the time taken in crossing the Royal William was crippled, with her starboard engine damaged and with leaky boilers, but she reached Gravesend under steam on September 11.

The first purchaser of the Royal William was Joseph Sones, a Radcliffe ship owner. Sones used the vessel in Portuguese trade, and after the sale in September, 1839, to the Spanish government, the Royal William, now the Ysabel Segunda, became the first steamship to cross the Atlantic, and a new hull built for the engines.

After 1839, four years before the Savannah made her trial Atlantic trip, there was an established British steamship line between Liverpool and Glasgow, and other British transatlantic liners, the Great Western and the Sirius sailed, one from New York. There was a spirited race across the Atlantic which the Sirius won by a margin of a few hours. The second Royal William, also a large ship, was the next to cross.

The first real impetus to ocean steamer travel was the royal mail contract which Mr. Samuel Cunard secured from the British government. The service of carrying the mails from Liverpool via Halifax to Boston, which was heavily subsidized, and other conditions that at least four identical steamers. The Cunard service grew amazingly.

Montreal was not to have regular steamer service for a long time. After 1815, Captain Alexander Allan, who had, during the Peninsular campaign, conveyed stores and cattle to Lisbon for Wellington's army, established a regular service of sailing vessels between the Clyde and Canada. Until 1837, these ships sailed from Greenock to Montreal, but after the Clyde was deepened, from Glasgow. From then Captain Allan and his five sons devoted themselves to building up a strong Canadian trade. For nearly forty years they used only sailing vessels and carried the greater part of the immigrants landed on Canadian shores.

In 1852, Sir Hugh Allan's tender to the Canadian government for a weekly mail service was accepted and so began the Canadian mail steamship service. Though they chug for many years to the sailing ships, the Allans may still lay claim to the distinction of having owned and sent across the Atlantic the first steel steamer.

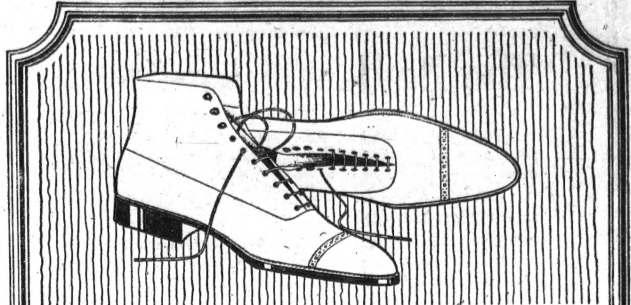

Steel Made Skyscrapers Possible

It is the steel frame that has made the tall buildings of cities possible. Steel being infinitely stronger than brick, the walls of one of these 700-foot buildings can be practically the same thickness all the way up.

With brick, on the other hand, the walls of a tall building would have to be so thick at the base that every little floor space would be left on the lower stories. It has been calculated that, in a 12-story building, 100 feet long and 50 feet wide, 4,000 square feet, or a tenth of an acre, more floor space is secured by having steel frame walls than by having brick walls.

Wool Consumed in August

Manufacturers used a million and a half more pounds of wool in August than in July, 1918, the department of agriculture reports. August figures being 63,900,000 pounds, grease equivalent, compared to 62,300,000 in July. Monthly consumption has averaged about 67,000,000 ounces, grease equivalent, since January 1, 1918.

Correct style worn by well dressed young men in all localities. Lace boot—medium narrow toe for, low heel—made in black, tan or patent calf. Price, $7.00 to $10.00.

Good Value and How to Get it

YOUR interest, as a member of the consuming public, and yours as Canada's largest manufacturers of shoes, are really identical. They may be summed up in a single phrase: "Quality Shoes at Fair Prices."

A fair price today is a higher price than usual, because the cost of every item of material and labor which goes into a pair of shoes has increased greatly and is still increasing.

In order that you may continue to get quality at fair prices, we shall feature in advertisements certain specific shoes which we know will give you good value. From our knowledge and experience, we will suggest to you the best methods of buying, whether you select shoes of our manufacture or not.

We ask you to buy for service rather than merely for style; to go to a reliable dealer, and to look for the manufacturer's trade-mark on the shoes. By so doing you may be assured of good value for your money.

Undaunted Italy

Have Cut Down Their Valuable Olive Woods

Signor Galli, chief of the Italian coal mission in London, has issued an official statement which explains the coal situation in Italy in a way that every one can understand. In 1918, where the winter in the northern plains behind the fighting line is far more severe than in England, the public have practically no coal at all. Last winter hospitals went without coal. All imported coal goes to the railways and munition works, and they are short. It is he tells us no uncommon thing for a train to stop between two stations for lack of fuel. Gas is scarce and the price of the largest towns, and only for two or three hours. Other means of lighting are scarce or unprocurable and after sundown people sit in the dark. They have been cutting down the olive woods, one of the greatest of their national economic assets, but still have not enough wood.

When we contrast our own state with the conditions in which the Italians are bearing their burden and keeping an undaunted heart, and when we recollect how dependent they are upon us, and how they look to our coal mines for relief, the man who is not ready to work or to save in downright earnest is not a man at all.—From the London Times.

Britain's Submarines

At the beginning of the war, Great Britain was without submarines which weighed between 300 to 500 tons, now she has underwater ships of 1,000 tons, sleekly in armor and carrying 6-inch guns.

Peace Danger

"I don't know about these war intentions when peace comes."

"What about them?"

"These aviator fans may go about in baseball teams bombing the umpires."

Australia Takes Action

Red Flag is Offensive to Loyal Australians

Following the decision of the Trades Hall in Sydney and Melbourne to fly the red flag, and the protest made by the acting prime minister, Mr. W. A. Watt, the federal government has taken action to stop the flaunting of an emblem which is considered offensive to loyal Australians.

Mr. Watt announced that the federal cabinet has decided to draft regulations under the war precautions act, setting out the flags that may be flown in Australia during the war in process, or on buildings. Before any other emblem can be displayed, permission will first have to be obtained from the minister of defense. The only flags allowed to be flown without permission will be those of the British Empire, including the Dominions, of the allies, and the flag known as the papal flag.

LIGHTEN YOUR WASHDAY LABOR

Comfort and convenience count on washdays, perhaps more than on any other day of the week. Anything that will lighten the work is doubly welcome then.

EDDY'S INDURATED FIBREWARE

Wash Tubs and Washboards

are labor lighteners. They save time and strength. Incidentally they cost no more. Eddy's Fibre wash-tubs are easy to lift and easy to carry. They keep the water hot a long time because they do not radiate heat as galvanized iron or tin will do. They cannot leak, because they are made in one piece, without joint or seam. And the cost is actually less because they will outlast several of the old-fashioned kinds of wash-tubs.

Eddy's Twin Beaver Washboards are tied by the special crimp which loosens the dirt easily. A washing surface on each side gives them double the efficiency of the ordinary washboard.

When you buy matches look for the name "Eddy" on the box. A kind for every purpose.

The Bank will trust you

Perhaps you never had an account in a bank—maybe you've never done business in a bank—hardly even cashed a cheque in one. But—that is no reason why you cannot go to a bank and borrow money to buy Victory Bonds.

If you are a steady, industrious, thrifty citizen, working and saving a part of your income, you are just the kind of person Canada's chartered banks stand ready to help to-day.

Any bank will lend you as much money as you can save during the next twelve months, with which to buy Victory Bonds.

All you have to do is to pay ten per cent. of the amount you want to buy and deposit the receipt for that ten per cent. in the bank.

The bank will lend you the 90 per cent. balance at 5½ per cent. interest and will give you a year to repay it, the interest you get on your bond being just the same as the bank charges you.

This is a fine opportunity for you to begin a real savings account, to make a first class investment and to help your country at the same time.

Why not see a banker to-day—he will tell you all about it and you will be glad of the advice and help he can give you.

Armistice is Signed, But—

In our last week's issue appeared big headlines announcing the signing of an armistice between the Allies and Germany. Later reports contradicted these statements. This first report was circulated all over the American continent, and the Times was not the only newspaper, as well as the people themselves, to be misguided by them.

But in this week's issue we are able to repeat the headlines and feel confident that there will be no comeback.

Germany has signed an armistice, making it impossible for her to renew hostilities. The terms that were given to Germany have been published in the daily papers and the Times hopes that it will be able to publish them in the near future.

Mrs. H. B. McLane Dies of Flu.
The death occurred Thursday, of Mrs. H. B. McLane. Mrs. McLane was down with the flu a short time ago.

Mrs. McLane was a sister to Mr. John Bayne of Irma, who was also a victim of the epidemic.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved relatives and friends.

LOCAL NEWS

W. T. Barber has purchased a new well boring machine.

Mrs. A. W. Howarth and son left Tuesday for Toronto where she intends spending the winter.

The Edmonds Hotel which has been quarantined on account of the flu, has been fumigated and is now open for business.

Another car of B. C. potatoes is on the way for the Co-Op. If you have not received your winters supply see them at once.

There are patients at the hospital and at the convalescent home which need milk, eggs and fruit or nourishment. You are urgently requested to supply what you can.

Several of the first of the flu patients have recovered, and we are glad to see them out again among the convalescents are R. J. Tate, J. W. Wyatt, R. Williamson, W. B. Peterson and family, Stuart Caffell, Geo. Sawyer, A. Hughes, C. Herick, Edmonds family, and Mrs. and Mrs. Hubbs.

Mrs. Wm. E. Walker has received a package of souvenirs from her husband, Sapper W. E. Walker, from somewhere in France. The package contains a steel helmet and cap, German knapsack, knife, fork and spoon, piece of German aeroplane, 2 aluminum rings, an assortment of bullets and shrapnell and several small articles.

The long looked for car of potatoes for the Co-Op arrived Monday morning but did not last long. Another car was shipped last Saturday and should arrive the first of next week.

The Flu Epidemic put a damper all Peace Celebration in Irma last Monday with the church full sick and several homes in the district waiting patiently to know whether the grim reaper would call their loved ones no attempt was made to celebrate. No doubt at a future date fitting plans will be made to honor the great victory.

Irma Co-Op Co. Ltd.

CANADA FOOD CONTROL LICENSE NO. 8-16524

A message was received in Irma Tuesday from Edmonton, stating that Mr. O. T. Anderson was very low. Mr. Anderson was taken to Edmonton about a week ago to receive treatment for paralysis, of which he has been suffering all summer. His home is in the Zoldavara district west of Irma.

Owing to the epidemic the Victory Loan canvassers have been unable to make all the calls they should have. However, considering conditions, the Loan is being well subscribed to and the results will no doubt be a credit to the district.
